Appeals Board throws out waiver for oversized sign

by MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Appeals last week overturned the Planning Board's approval of a waiver extension for the oversized sign at the Pleasant River Motel.

The decision is somewhat moot, however, since the sign had blown down during the previous week. Owner Francis Dumont told the Appeals Board Wednesday that a temporary sign has been put up, and he plans to put up a permanent sign that will meet the town ordinance.

But Dick Taylor, who filed the appeal, said later that the decision was still significant. "A regulatory ordinance, as much in its due process as in its specific content, was attempted as being necessary to balance individual rights with equally held rights of others and of the community," Taylor said. "In this particular case, the decision also prevented a precedent being established in sign size times the ordinance standard) which could easily form the legal basis for future lawsuits by anybody with a mind to have a similarly drastic variance. Had that happened, we would truly have given up a major source of power to govern a part of Bethel's future."

Taylor's appeal was upheld by a vote of three to one, with Harry Faulkner, Jeri Greenwell and Ken Ramage voting in favor, and Wendie Gray voting against.

The Pleasant River sign was six times larger than allowed by the ordinance. It had already been granted five years of waivers, and in April the Planning Board voted to grant it an additional five years.

The board cited financial hardship when granting the waiver, but did not specify how the situation met the four criteria hardship required for such a finding (the board has since agreed to change the way it handles such requests).

Taylor challenged the finding of hardship, and he argued that granting such a large waiver effectively gutted the ordinance.

"That degree of waiver seems clearly excessive," he said, adding that he was "worried about the destructive precedent which such an exaggerated waiver sets."

The sheer size of the waiver, he said, "in effect nullifies the sign ordinance."

He also challenged Planning Board member Don Feeney's comment that applying the ordinance to the sign would constitute a "taking."

He noted that in their interpretation of the Fifth Amendment, courts distinguish between a taking and reasonable regulation.

Waiver defended

Francis Dumont, owner of the motel, defended the waiver.

The sign had originally been approved by then Town Manager Rodney Lynch, and Dumont said he had later removed a number of other large signs on the property. He said he had never received any

'I don't think (the decision to grant the waiver) was any worse than any others. ... We functioned loosely on that ordinance, but we did so consistently.'

For some, tolls still restrict access to the Information Superhighway

by MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel's new Internet hook-up is a boon for many users, but for a sizeable number of local people getting online can still be a costly affair.

The Internet connection, established by the Bethel Education Committee, is intended to serve computer users throughout the SAD44 area. It currently provides access in Bethel, Newry and Locke Mills with 15 hours a month of Internet time for a flat fee of $15 a month (plus local taxes). Since calls to the modem bank are local calls, there are no long-distance toll charges.

But would be Internet users in Bryant Pond and Andover are still faced with long-distance toll charges. That has been especially true for those who also face toll charges of up to 15 cents (Bryant Pond) or 20 cents (Andover).

That's $9 or $12 per hour, and could add up to as much as $135 or $180 per month, even with the 15 percent volume discount, this is certainly no bargain.

These numbers are worst case, since they represent calls made only during the high-priced weekday-evening period.

If users confine their calling to nights, later 11 and weekends, the charges would drop to $54 and $72. All costs listed here are for computer purposes only -- a number of factors affect what a given call would actually cost.

There are, of course, a variety of long-distance options available to reduce these costs. The most attractive for Internet users is probably Selective Calling Plan offered by Oxford West Telephone Company. Under this plan the user pays a small monthly charge of $1.30 and all calls to a specified long-distance exchange are charged at only half the usual rate.

For example, a Bryant Pond or Andover user could sign up for Selective Calling and all their calls to Bethel would be charged at half the usual toll.

The cost of 15 hours of Internet time (nights and weekends) could drop as low as $28.30 (Bryant Pond) or $37.30 (Andover).

State aid may drop $60,000-$100,000

by ALISON ALOISIO

SAD44 faces the loss of between $70,000 and $100,000 in state revenue for the FY '96 budget. And that's the best case scenario, Supt. Vincent Jenkins told the School Board Monday.

Jenkins said there are currently two different funding proposals under consideration by the Legislature. He said the $100,000 one seems the most likely, in his opinion.

Because of an expected delay in getting final word on the state's share, Jenkins is proposing that this year's district budget meeting be changed from May 24 to June 29.

The board continued discussion on the budget at Monday's work-session. The current proposal would mean an 8.58 percent increase over the year's expenditures.

Considerable time was spent hearing the concerns of Telstar High School students over the possible loss of a guidance counselor for such budget cuts.

Parents asked Jenkins to bring more information on the guidance services, as well as health offerings, custodial services, and a job description for the Telstar High School principal's position.

NOVA funding change proposed

Deputies also heard NOVA's FY '96 budget proposal from NOVA Director Dewaine Craig.

Craig told the board that of a total proposed assessment to member towns and districts of $893,972, SAD44 would pay $205,345.37, up slightly from this year's $203,430.05.

Craig also outlined a proposed change in the funding formula for assessing member schools, scheduled to be voted on by the NOVA Board last night (Tuesday).

By the current method, the number of students attending Telstar High School determines the SAD44 share of the budget, figured through a percentage of the total number of

Eighth-graders do well on MEAs

by ALISON ALOISIO

Telstar Middle School eighth-graders performed at or above the state average in all subjects on last October's Maine Educational Assessment (MEA) tests.

Principal Dick Blackman told the SAD44 School Board last week that the scores were "outstanding." He will make a formal presentation to the board at its next regular meeting on April 24.

According to results released by the state Department of Education, the 78 Telstar students scored better than the state average in reading (350 to the state's 290), writing (315 to 265), science (315 to 280), arts and humanities (290 to 280), and health (285 to 250).

Their scores equaled the state in math, at 325, and social studies, at 255. The scoring range on the test is 100 to 400.

The eighth-graders' scores also equaled or exceeded the school's three-year cumulative averages in all subjects except arts and humanities, and science.

This year's MEAs also include, for the first time, performance-level

by ALISON ALOISIO

Writing teacher Jeanette Baldridge was tired of seeing her SAD44 Adult Ed students' good writing end up in boxes under their beds, or worse, simply thrown away. So she and one of her students, Sandy Dennis, decided to do something about it.

Baldridge, a freelance writer, teaches fiction writing in both SAD44 and SAD17. Last fall she and Dennis, who has a business background, thought it would be nice if fledgling writers had a forum for their work.

The result is the first quarterly issue of their literary journal, "Out of the Cradle," which goes on sale in western Maine this week.

Baldridge and Dennis have two goals for their publication: provide a forum for new writers, and give readers a quality journal that doesn't require a college degree to appreciate.

The journal's name is taken from the opening lines of a poem by Walt Whitman. It includes short stories and poems, as well as photographs and artwork.

Contributors are mostly from Maine, but the journal also includes work from writers as far away as Florida and California.

"They're all Maine stories, though," said Baldridge. Story titles range from "The Nestling" to "Fishing the Flats" to "Get Your Worm Out of My Coffee."

A student section of the journal includes work by students from Telstar Middle School, SAD44 Adult Ed, and Gould Academy.

"We're really serious about working with students. I would have written much earlier if I had been encouraged in school. I was told then it was a fine hobby, but you have to find a career you can make money at," Dennis said.

The back page of the 56-page April issue includes a special appeal to writing and art teachers to send in their top students' work for possible publication.

Fledgling publishers

Both Baldridge and Dennis are new to publishing, but their combined experience in writing and business helps them work well together.

Word about the journal has gotten around since they sent out flyers to writers on the mailing list of the

JOIN THE MOLLYCKETT PARADE

To the Editor:

This year's Mollyckett Day theme will be "Bethel in the 40s," to be held on July 15. The Bethel Memorial V.F.W. Post 11363 will again sponsor the parade.

We are hoping to make this year's parade bigger and better, but it takes the cooperation of the area merchants and the community as a whole. A few concerned citizens are trying to get a bigger participation from groups outside Bethel. The area that we would like to see better participation is the floats. Antique cars are always welcome, along with the various scouting organizations. The fire trucks always add a distinctive color to the parade.

This year's theme covers quite a latitude, ranging from the war years to the age of prosperity. If you have your old uniform or stylish clothes from the 40s, how about wearing them just for the day. All it takes is looking in the closet or opening up the old footlocker.

The parade will form up on Mechanic Street and Railroad Street around 10:30 a.m. and start up Main Street at 11 a.m. sharp. The route will be up Main Street, around the common, the disperse on Church Street.

There will be trophies awarded for the best floats, ribbons and gift or dining certificates awarded to all other participants. The Miss Mollyckett selection committee will be chaired by Malcolm Gould Jr of the Bethel Lions Club.

Any constructive inputs can be mailed to P.O. Box 496, Bethel, Maine, 04217, or call V.F.W. Cmdr. Delma F. McMillin at 824-2587.

complaints about the sign, and people staying at the motel frequently had their pictures taken in front of it.

The sign originally came under the town sign rules when the Dumonts submitted a site plan application to open a restaurant at the motel.

Had they not opened a new business, the sign would have still been grandfathered -- as are many other signs in town.

"You look at the town now and you're lucky if you've got 20 percent of the signs that meet the ordinance," he said.

As to the sign blowing over, "Some people might have thought it was great, but to us it was a real loss," he said. "It hurt my heart and it hurt us as well to see something like that go -- it was a real loss that went."

Planners speak out

A number of Planning Board members attended last week's meeting, as did Dennis Doyon, who resigned from the board in protest of the waiver vote.

Doyon argued that the Dumonts had committed to remove the overhang.

They entered into an agreement at the time they signed the site plan -- it was a condition of approval," he said.

And during the earlier waiver period, he said, "Francis did come in with a plan to replace the sign. There was the intent to replace the sign. Where that intent fell away I don't know."

Doyon also noted that two of three businesses that were advertised on the sign (the campground and restaurant) are now closed, and under the ordinance after a business is closed its signs must be taken down within 30 days.

But Planning Board member Don Feeney defended the waiver. He also challenged the motive for the appeal.

"I think Mr. Taylor's appeal is based more or less on a personal subjective feeling rather than the operation of the ordinance," Feeney claimed.

"Taylor denied the accusation."

"I have no interest in taste," he said. "It wasn't at all a subjective notion on my part. I just looked at the numbers -- the size and the degree of waiver, pure and simple."

Some degree of flexibility was necessary in administering the ordinance, he said, but the size of Dumont's waiver "implies strongly that the planning board has the discretion to do anything it wants, and to grant any sign it wishes."

It amounts, Taylor argued, to "government by whim, as well intended as it is."

But Feeney argued that even if the waiver decision was wrong, it was nonetheless consistent with other Planning Board decisions.

"The Planning Board has consistently given waivers for signs," Feeney argued, and Dumont "presented as much of a hardship as anyone else."

"I don't think this particular one was any worse than any others. ... we functioned loosely on that ordinance, but we did so consistently."

But Ramage retorted: "Just like a lot of times in the past we tried to be 'good ol' boys' and bend the rules."

Feeney said the board had changed its ways. "Is the board going to be better? Yes, we are. ... but the water has gone under the bridge on this one and I would urge you not to honor the appeal."

After all the arguments had been heard, chairman Harry Faulkner said that in his mind the matter boiled down to the fact that the four criteria of hardship had not been met.

He would be voting to uphold the appeal, he said, and Greenwell and Ramage concurred.

Gris voted against the appeal, arguing that the waiver was consistent with past Planning Board precedents and represented the paid judgment of the board members.

high school students in the region.

The new formula would be based half on the current method, and half on the actual number of students from each high school actually taking NOVA courses.

If the proposal was in place now, SAD44 would be assessed $153,494.99 for FY'96, instead of the $205,345.47.

Craig said he thought the vote by the NOVA Board would be close. SAD43, SAD21, Hanover, and Gilead would pay more under the proposal, if their NOVA enrollments remain the same as they are now. If approved, the formula would not take effect until FY '97.

The next budget workshop will take place on May 4.

Directors absent from Monday's workshop were Merton Brown, Fran Head, and Jane Lowe of Bethel, Ray Harrington and Susan Gordon of Greenwood, Marcel Palak of Woodstock, Martin Hinkle of Newry, and Sid Pew of Andover.

ratings for each student in reading, writing, and math.

Students fall into one of four categories: distinguished, advanced, basic, or novice, according to their achievement on the test.

The performance of Telstar students placed in the top two categories exceeded the state average in all three subjects.

In reading, 5 percent of TMS students were in the distinguished category, compared to the state average of 1 percent, while 34 percent of local students were in the advanced level, to the state's 22 percent.

In writing, comparisons were 7 percent to 4 in distinguished, and 57 percent to 43 in advanced.

In math, the comparisons were 2 percent to 1 in distinguished, and 5 percent to 4 in advanced.

A smaller percentage of Telstar students placed in the novice category, compared to the rest of the state, in all three subjects.

In a cover letter to the scores report, former Education Commissioner Leo Martin said it should be the goal of schools in the state to have the majority of students reach the advanced level or above.

Telstar achieved that goal in writing, missed by 11 percentage points in reading, and fell far short in math (as did the state).

More Lighthouse Fog & Snowe

By MIKE BROWN

After weeks of refusing to comment on the 33 Maine lighthouses giveaway, and two days after a published column in Maine newspapers saying so, Sen. Olympia Snowe faxed her first response. Her proposed bill will give several million dollars worth of coastal properties and lighthouse structures free to the Island Institute of Rockland, Maine.

Sen. Snowe's rhetorical response raises more questions than answers to this multiple millions giveaway. Snowe's explanation of her proposed bill (a legacy of Sen. George Mitchell) seems to indicate that if lighthouse properties are transferred to the Institute, then it will "ensure that the active aides to navigation -- the lights and horns -- will remain fully active by the Coast Guard."

Snowe therefore makes threats that if the transfer doesn't take place, then because of "financial burdens" the Coast Guard may discontinue some aides to navigation.

Firstly, what is the Coast Guard's mission anyway? Is it to expend the public and mariners' tax money chasing Cuban rafters, illegal aliens, drug boats and foreign and domestic fishing vessel quotas? Or is its primary congressional mission maritime safety, including lighthouse equipment?

Secondly, Snowe is misinformed, whether in self-interest by the Institute or the Coast Guard. Whatever eventually happens to the public lighthouse structures and land properties, the light, antennae, sound signal, and associated equipment which are active aides to navigation shall continue to be operated and maintained by the US Government for as long as they are needed for this purpose.

If the Coast Guard decided to discontinue, automate, or otherwise change the status of an operational aide to navigation, it must do so with public comment. (But there is no public comment in stripping 33 Maine lighthouses from public ownership and giving them to one entity free of all charges.)

Snowe is again misinformed by suggesting that the Island Institute, either as owner or broker, will ensure that the lighthouse structures will be accessible to the public and maintained as historic buildings. If the US Government doesn't have the money to maintain 33 mostly inaccessible lighthouse structures, then does the Island Institute, state, municipalities, or other prospective "keepers?" And any new owner of a lighthouse will also be weighted down with historic preservation covenants in perpetuity.

The preservation and sticky nostalgic rhetoric of Snowe's proposal captures a few newspaper fancy flies. The Maine Sunday Telegram, continuing its record setting run of mindless editorials, doesn't have a clue of what is involved in this multi-million lighthouse giveaway.

A recent MST editorial parrots Snowe saying it's a "win-win" proposal for the people of Maine and the mariners who navigate our coast.

The only winner is the Island Institute, which will be loaded down with about 20 million happy claims it will be totting to the vault for banked collateral for use in more offshore self-enrichment schemes.

This entire one-source, no-bid, no-public-input scheme is a transgression on public policy and most probably public law. If the US Government is going to dispose of "surplus property," then presumably there are laws for such transfers of ownership. Sen. Snowe does not explain why she proposes a federal giveaway of lighthouse statute giving single domain proprietorship.

The Island Institute is not to the lighthouse born. In fact, it is an opportunistic we-all-come-lately-to-island-life who found a void in representation and fund raising among the islands' more affluent summer population. That the Institute presumes to speak for offshore Maine is evident in its elitist lobbying, vanity publications, and bamboozling of politicians.

If the Institute wishes to get into the real estate business, then let the directors apply for a broker's license and then get in line with the rest of the bona fide Realtors who are out scratching for a living. But using its non-profit status and well-connected pals to get free ownership of many millions worth of public real estate without public input or abiding the bidding process is simply a swindle.

And Sen. Olympia Snowe ought to know it. (Veteran newsmen and columnist Mike Brown writes regularly on the Augusta political scene. His views are his own and do not necessarily reflect those of The Citizen.)

PHILBROOK HOUSE IN NATIONAL REGISTER

The Samuel D. Philbrook House on Main Street, has been entered in the National Register of Historic Places, according to Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr., director of the Maine Historical Preservation.

The designation indicates that the property has been documented, evaluated, and considered worthy of preservation and protection as part of the nation's cultural heritage.

Erected in 1878-79 on the site of a building which had been destroyed by fire, the Italianate-style dwelling and its attached barn was the residence of businessman Samuel D. Philbrook.

New Greenwood SAD44 director

GREENWOOD--Selectmen last week appointed Brad Payne to a one-year term on the SAD44 School Board, replacing Amy Chapman, who did not run again at the March 25 Town Meeting. There were no other candidates for the position at that time. Payne may run for the remaining two years of the three-year term at next year's Town Meeting. Selectmen also appointed Richard Conant to serve out the remaining two years of a three-year term on the Planning Board, replacing Heywood Sawyer. The board is also working on establishing job requirements for a town manager. Greenwood voted at the Town Meeting to create the position, to go into effect after the 1996 Town Meeting. Selectmen will interview prospective candidates at a future date.

Bethel board considers subdivisions

BETHEL--The Bethel Planning Board approved adding lots to one subdivision and tabled a decision on another last week. Developer Gordon Brown of Woodstock received approval to add six lots to 14 already approved at his Johnson Park Subdivision in East Bethel. The board stipulated that none of the lots have direct access to the Intervale Road. The board put off until April 26 a decision on a subdivision site plan application presented by Tom Kennison for Richard Tibbetts and Dale Verrill. The issue in question was whether the property owner could create a subdivision of 19.9 acres with eight lots, and keep a 240-acre parcel without having to go through DEP for approval. Kennison said he had a letter from DEP stating the review process was not needed. The majority of board members felt the ordinance needed further review and voted 5-1 to table the application.

Favoritism alleged in Andover

ANDOVER--Selectmen will investigate allegations of favoritism regarding road closings and town contractors' taxes, they said at last week's meeting. Selectman Woody Greeke said according to the allegations, one business had been singled out for carrying a heavy load on a posted road, while other roads are not posted because they are used by companies such as M.R. Dowel and Andover Wood Products. "I think the present posting rules were set up to give the businesses a break, but they have been abused," Greeke said. Fellow selectman Harold Frazier said there have also been allegations that some local contractors do not report all of their personal property for tax purposes. He said an Andover businessman complained that it has been standard practice for some contractors to keep certain property in the woods. Frazier used the example of a logging skidder, saying that in the past such property had not been taxed.

Gilead movie props sought

GILEAD--Set decorators for a movie set in Gilead have been searching the Bethel area for materials, including maps and real estate listings, to lend authenticity to the movie. The film "e/o Spitfire Grill" is actually being shot in Peacham, Vt., but will use the name of Gilead. The storyline concerns a girl coming out of prison and moving to the town. Set decorator Larry Dias said last week the art department for the production is looking for material to put on the walls of a sheriff's office and a real estate office which appear in the movie. "We're looking for material to help represent Peacham as Gilead," he said. The movie's producer is Forrest Murray, and stars Ellen Burstyn and Allison Elliot.

Newry News to hit presses?

NEWRY--Newry selectmen are planning to publish a quarterly newsletter, according to selectman Wendy Hanscom. Hanscom said the publication will include news of town committees and organizations, and the first issue may appear in July. Administrative assistant Sylvia Gray will research postage costs as plans for the newsletter progress.

Water district referendum OK'd

WEST PARIS--A bill allowing for a referendum to increase the debt limit of the West Paris Water District from $300,000 to $1 million recently passed the Legislature and was signed into law by Gov. Angus King. The bill was requested by the Board of Directors of the water district. The vote must be held before December 31, 1995.

Amtrak project escapes ax

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Amtrak announced last week that it would not cut funding for the Boston to Portland passenger train service project, according to Sen. William Cohen (R-Maine). Cohen said he had asked Amtrak president Tom Downs not to include the line in the latest round of budget cuts. The restoration of Boston to Maine service was first proposed several years ago. Maine is currently one of only five states without passenger rail service.

L.L. Bean/Outward Bound partnership

ROCKLAND--L.L. Bean and the Hurricane Island Outward Bound School have formed a partnership that will establish a scholarship fund for Maine youth at the Rockland-based Outward Bound school. As another part of the agreement, Outward Bound will work with L.L. Bean executives through its professional development program, and will test L.L. Bean equipment and gear on its courses. The school serves over 7,000 students a year at its bases in Maine, Maryland, and Florida, and offers sailing, kayaking, backpacking, canoeing, dog-sledding, and winter mountaineering courses for individuals and groups.

Winter tough on northeast skiing

PORTLAND--The 1994-95 ski season hasn't been very good for most Maine resorts and related businesses, because of a mild winter with less-than-average snowfall. Skier visits at Sugarloaf USA were down 5 to 7 percent, and the resort was scheduled to close Monday, two weeks earlier than planned. At Shawnee Peak in Bridgton, which closed March 26, skier visits may have been off by 10 percent. Sunday River was the exception, reporting its 15th straight record season. The Newry resort said it surpassed last year's attendance of 528,046 on March 31. Local businesses said they benefited from Sunday River's success. Downhill areas throughout the Northeast "had the most difficult time" of areas nationwide this year, according to Michael Berry, president of the National Ski Areas Association. "And it's directly related to the weather," he said.

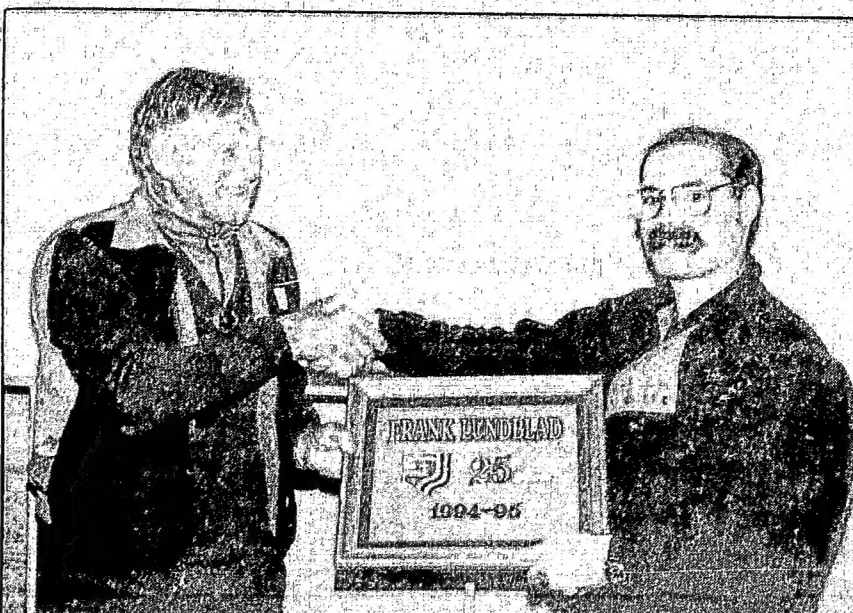

Step toward New England primary

MONTPELIER, VT.--The Vermont House last week approved holding a presidential primary on Town Meeting Day next March, setting the stage for a New England regional primary a week after New Hampshire votes. The secretaries of state in the New England states, other than New Hampshire, have been discussing the possibility of the regional primary. Under the proposal, voters would have to declare their preference for either a Republican or a Democratic ballot. Rep. Ralph Baker, R-Randolph, a bill sponsor, said that did not amount to joining either party, which a number of lawmakers had cited as their chief objection. Four years ago Vermont chose its delegates to party conventions through caucuses.

Mountain biker meets mountain lion

LOS ANGELES--There may or may not be mountain lions in Maine, but there are in Los Angeles, as one mountain biker found out. Twenty-seven-year-old Scott Fike was riding alone on a hiking trail when a mountain lion began running alongside him. He stopped and tried to use the bike as a shield. The lion chewed and clawed the bike, then headed around it toward Fike, who then ran down an embankment and fell. The lion clawed and bit him on the side of the head. Fike pushed the animal away, grabbed a rock, and struck the lion. With the animal in pursuit, Fike grabbed more rocks and ran until he reached his bike and escaped. He was examined at a hospital but declined treatment. Experts advise people who encounter mountain lions to avoid running or making sudden moves. Instead they should stand tall, yell, and wave their arms.

SKI PATROLLER EXTRAORDINAIRE--Sunday River ski patroller Frank Lundblad was honored recently for 25 years of service with the patrol, 13 of them at Sunday River. Lundblad, 70, came to this country from Norway at age three. His sister, Ellen Crocker, said he survived a bout with pancreatic cancer about 12 years ago, for which there is generally a two percent survival rate. "And he still plays tennis, too," Crocker said. Here, Lundblad, left, accepts a plaque from Ski Patrol Director Andy Robidoux. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Info Tolls

Yank the toll?

There is still another option for lowering the rate -- petitioning the state Public Utilities Commission to lower or totally drop the toll charge.

Wayne Jortner of the state Public Advocate's office said that -- at least in the case of Bryant Pond to Bethel -- such a petition would have a reasonable chance of success.

A number of factors argue against the continuation of this local long distance toll: Most of the area's major employers are in the 824- or 875- exchange. The Woodstock and Bethel exchanges are now owned by the same company, and they are less than eight miles apart along a major highway. Children from Bryant Pond go to school in Bethel after grade five (and until they move up to Bethel, they are likely to have significantly less Internet access, both at home and in school, than do children from Bethel, Locke Mills and Newry).

Woodstock resident Jim Chandler thinks the case against the toll is strong enough to give the petition route a try.

He said he hopes to have a petition drafted by the end of the week calling for the elimination of the toll on calls to Bethel from the 665- and 674- exchanges.

Chandler plans to place the petitions in Bryant Pond area businesses.

Only 10 signatures are necessary to put the petition before the PUC, but more would lend weight to the argument, Jortner said.

A state of flux

All this may change in the not-too-distant future.

Affordable Internet access is a matter of increasing concern nationally, and Jortner noted that in Maine a statewide Internet-access petition is currently being drawn up.

Bob Jamison, general manager of Oxford West, said he too is exploring possible ways to provide lower cost Internet access, but he cautioned that any revenues lost in lowering tolls must be made up elsewhere, probably in the basic monthly service charge.

"I don't want to promise people something we won't be able to deliver," he said, "but this is certainly something we've been working on."

From the Bethel Police log:

Abduction or rescue?

Sunday, April 16

At 1:29 a.m. police were asked to respond to a Main Street, Bryant Pond residence for a report of a woman screaming. On arrival police were told by several subjects that a 17-year-old female had been forced into a vehicle against her will by her ex-boyfriend and another male subject. The vehicle then drove south on Route 26. An Oxford County Sheriff's Deputy stopped the vehicle minutes later on Route 26. Bethel police responded as back-up. Apparently the female was forced into the car by her brother, who was concerned she was being furnished alcohol at the Bryant Pond residence by male subjects. The vehicle and the occupants were allowed to depart. The sheriff's deputy returned to the residence to investigate the incident further.

Saturday, April 15

At 5:48 a.m. an alarm company reported an alarm going off at an Intervale residence. Police checked the residence and spoke with the caretaker, who said the residents were gone for several days. He said the cat had caused the alarm to go off. The owners had not contacted the police department to advise that they would be gone. There was a second call to the same residence at 8:24 a.m.

At 4:39 p.m. a West Bethel resident called to report an unwanted subject in his residence. On arrival, police were told by the caller that he had been asleep when he was awakened by the subject punching and kicking him in the head. He said he could remember little else as the attack had shaken him up. The subject then fled. The caller and the subject's ex-wife were provided with blank statement forms to complete. Police said the attack was apparently due to the caller's relationship with the subject's ex-wife. The caller later sought treatment at Stephens Memorial Hospital for multiple blunt trauma to the head and a possible concussion. Police planned to complete a report for review by the District Attorney's office.

Friday, April 14

At 10:35 a.m. a West Bethel resident reported damage to a building behind his residence where he had several items stored. Two windows and four sliding glass doors were broken. There was a large hole in the overhead garage door, where it looked like someone had tried to burn it. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

At 3:55 p.m. an Albany resident reported that a New Hampshire resident had moved out of an Eden Ridge condominium after living there for one year, and had taken items not belonging to him. The items included an heirloom chest of drawers and framed photos, valued in total at $1,250. Police asked the renting realtor to fill out a statement regarding what she had observed on entering the condo.

At 10:13 p.m. a Bethel Rescue volunteer reported the rescue unit was attempting to transport an injured subject in Albany, and other subjects were causing problems. When police arrived the subjects had gone back inside the residence.

At 10:33 p.m. police received a report from the Backstage Restaurant that there was a disorderly subject who had thrown a beer bottle inside the bar. When police arrived the subject had fled. No charges were filed.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

Augusta Roll Call Report

By STEVEN STYCOS

Each month while the Maine legislature is in session, the Augusta Roll Call Report will detail the key votes of our area's legislators during the previous month. The Roll Call Report is intended to help voters decide whether how well their elected representatives are representing the people who elected them. The Citizen urges its readers to clip and save these reports and refer to them later when candidates for state representative and state senator are seeking votes. The Roll Call Report is researched and written by investigative reporter Steven Stycos using official House of Representatives and Senate documents.

Although some lawmakers worry the legislature is behind schedule and in danger of not properly addressing the major issues, Sen. Norman Ferguson (R-Oxford) believes reasonable progress is being made. He does, however, think some legislators file too many bills.

This year's legislature is awash with inexperienced members, divided committee reports and 1,100 bills.

With legislative staff doing the research and drafting, little effort is required to submit a bill, and that's a problem, says Ferguson. "You can have any hare-brained idea, without any effort at all," says the freshman Republican, "and go down to the revisions office and generate a bill."

Thus far, legislators have debated fairly minor bills. "There are far too many bills dealing with relatively small matters," says Sen. John Cleveland (D-Auburn), "that we can't deal with important issues."

Some legislators cite the tidal wave of freshman lawmakers as the cause of the legislature's slow pace. Every two years during the last decade, the legislature typically welcomed 40 to 50 new members, but this year 80 new lawmakers descended on Augusta.

Freshman legislators are not familiar with the well-worn arguments surrounding the many bills submitted every session. That leads to debate, disagreement and consequently delay in the legislature's 17 committees.

"I've never seen so many divided bills," says Senator David Carpenter (R-York), who was first elected in 1988. In past years, committees usually made unanimous recommendations, he says, enabling legislators to pass many bills without debate. This year, he says, committees frequently report bills with a split vote and that forces debate, both in party caucuses and on the Senate and House floors.

There is also less party discipline, says Carpenter. In the past, Republicans debated an issue between themselves in a party caucus and then voted as a block. Today, he says, there are more independent thinkers who slow, but ultimately improve, the legislative process.

Senate Minority Leader Mark Lawrence (D-York) cites an additional reason for the legislature's snail's pace -- the Republicans. "We're destined for a long summer," he predicts, and it all started in December when Senate Republicans proposed to cut the number of legislative committees. That dispute took a month to resolve and the legislature has not made up for the lost time, he says.

Others who believe the legislature is on schedule, warns of big problems in the future. "There's a lot of distance between (Democrats and Republicans) on the budget," says Sen. Jean Pendexter (R-Cumberland), "and that's what is going to delay us."

Below is a summary of major roll call votes in March.

SENATE

Attendance: Percentage of roll call votes for which a legislator has been present this year. (As of March 30 the Senate has had 36 roll call votes.)

Kill Bill to Stop Voter Registration on Election Day: 3/7/95 vote to kill LD 239, sponsored by Sen. Stephen Hall (R-Piscataquis), to halt voter registration on election day. Supporters say election day registration is open to fraud because people can travel to different towns and vote several times. Opponents say current law enables hundreds to vote and that cases of fraud are exaggerated. The motion to kill the bill passed 23-11. A "yes" vote is a vote to kill the bill.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Attendance: Percentage of roll call votes for which a legislator has been present this year. (As of March 30 the House has had 22 roll call votes.)

Lower Age to Serve in Legislature: 3/9/95 vote on LD 149, sponsored by Rep. Paul Vollenik (D-Sedgewick), to propose a constitutional amendment to voters to lower the minimum age required to serve in the Senate from 25 to 21 and in the House from 21 to 18. Vollenik says people old enough to vote and be drafted are old enough to be legislators. Opponents say young people do not have the necessary political and life experience to be legislators. The bill was defeated 53-88.

Four-year Terms for Legislators: 3/9/95 vote on LD 197, sponsored by Sen. Stephen Hall (R-Piscataquis), to propose a constitutional amendment to voters that legislators serve four-year terms instead of two years. Hall says the change would reduce the time and expense of campaigning and allow legislators to concentrate on law making. Opponents say two-year terms keep lawmakers in touch with citizen concerns. The bill was defeated 29-112.

Fund Saco River Corridor Commission: 3/9/95 vote on LD 173, sponsored by Rep. Eleanor Murphy (R-Berwick), to give $12,000 to the Saco River Corridor Commission. Murphy says the commission plays a key role in maintaining the river's water quality. Opponents say the money would be better spent elsewhere and the commission is an example of excessive environmental regulation. The bill passed 102-38.

Kill Bill for shorter Legislative Sessions: 3/14/95 vote to kill LD 146, sponsored by John Underwood (R-Oxford), to shorten legislative sessions by six to nine weeks. Proponents say the bill would save money and keep legislators in better touch with voters by spending less time in Augusta. Opponents say without ample time to consider bills, legislators would rush decisions and become more dependent on lobbyists for information. The motion to kill the bill passed 97-31. A "yes" vote is a vote to kill the bill.

Half of Maine Health Program: 3/21/95 vote on LD 775, sponsored by the Joint Standing Committee on Human Resources, to spend $200,000 to provide prescription drugs to 3,000 low-income Maine citizens from April 1 to June 30. The Maine Health Program expired March 31. During the supplemental budget debate in February, Senate Democrats tried to continue the program. They failed, but Senate Republicans and Gov. Angus King promised to support a $200,000 drug program in exchange for Democratic support for the budget. The drug bill passed the Senate overwhelmingly without a roll call vote. But in the House, it failed by five votes to win the 101 votes required to pass emergency legislation. The final vote was 96-52. A "yes" vote is a vote for the drug program.

All of Maine Health Program: 3/28/95 vote on LD 373, sponsored by the Joint Standing Committee on Human Resources, to spend $392,526 to continue the entire Maine Health Program from April 1 to June 30. Committee chairman Michael Fitzpatrick (D-Durham) concedes the bill has no chance of passing the Senate, but says the committee approved it to educate legislators that a drug program (see previous vote) is inadequate. Opponents of the program say it does not cover enough of Maine's uninsured citizens to justify its expense. The bill passed 72-61.

Bloody Mary's for Brunch: 3/28/95 vote on LD 341, sponsored by Rep. Marc Vigue (D-Winslow), to permit restaurants to sell liquor on Sunday starting at 9 a.m. Current law prohibits liquor sales until 12 noon. Supporters say the bill will help business. Opponents say there is enough time to drink and that the bill discriminates against retail stores which cannot sell liquor until noon. The bill passed 83-58.

Kill Bill to Make Legislators Account for funds: 3/28/95 vote on LD 381, sponsored by Rep. Thomas Davidson (D-Brunswick), to require legislators to account for the state money they spend on constituent services. Every year, Senators receive $1,000 and Representatives $750 to communicate with voters. Supporters say legislators should account for how they spend state funds. Opponents say accounting is unnecessary because the money does not cover legislators' expenses and protest that the bill questions their integrity. The motion to kill the bill passed 83-53. A "yes" vote is a vote to kill the bill.

Peggy Coolidge went with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Twitchell to the Senior Citizens meeting at the Frozen Logger in Bryant Pond. They enjoyed a good lunch.

George Bethel was home from U.R.I. for the Easter weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hastings and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Andrews of Fryeburg visited Florence Hastings recently.

Floribel Haines is doing very well at Ledgeview.

Ruby Coolidge attended the supper/dance at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills on April 11.

Ruby Coolidge will be teaching line dancing at the Sue Farrar Studio in Bethel. She said classes will be starting on April 17, but if you come on April 24 you will still be able to get into the class.

Penny Kitteredge had her wisdom teeth taken out recently.

Mary Bean attended the 40th Wedding Anniversary for Paul and Patricia Bean on April 9. She enjoyed the occasion very much.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Roy and Diane Johnson and sons, John and Joshua have arrived home after being on a vacation to Key West and Mexico. They reported a good time and glad to get back.

The Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club met Tuesday night at the Fire Station for their monthly meeting with 12 members present. The same slate of officers will serve another year and Bill Hunt will serve as vice president. The yearly Spring "dinner out" will be at the Shorelands Restaurant in Harrison on May 20, being Dutch Treat this year. For more information please check with Anne Wymán as to the time, etc.

On Monday evening the New Suncook School fifth-graders presented a musical play "The Clowns." I so much enjoy these programs. The teachers and children do a really great job.

Violet Doughty was in the Stephens Memorial Hospital last week and is now at home at 15 Beal St., Norway. Lois Niemi visited her several days recently.

On April 20 the members of the Church will have a supper planning meeting at 7:15 p.m. Church services are being held at North Waterford during the month of April at 10 a.m., the usual time.

A new program is being added at Camp Susan Curtis this summer which is designed to interest young girls in math and science. Camp Susan Curtis is located along the shores of Trout Pond in East Stoneham on 1,000 acres of land and serves disadvantaged children of Maine ages eight to 16 years old. This camp was established 21 years ago and was named in memory of former Governor and Mrs. Curtis's daughter who died of spina bifida. The new program will up the number of children attending camp from 380 to 420.

Pretty soon we'll be seeing our little three and one half inches of shimmering feathered iridescence friends, the hummingbird. They migrate out of the Country for the winter to Central and South America or some to California and Arizona. How can those dainty pretty little things fly so far away?! I must go hunt up my feeder for them and have it ready.

Stoneham Cemeteries: In order to prepare for Mother's Day and Memorial Day, lot owners are hereby notified that all old cemetery decorations will be removed by caretakers after May 7. --Stoneham Cemetery Committee Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19: Don't forget the meeting on April 19 at the K. of P. Hall at 7 p.m. We'll be doing initiation and plans for Memorial Day.

Songo Pond

by Alice Kimball

Kaitly Gatchell of Portland came home with her grandparents on Saturday afternoon for an overnight visit. Norma drove her to Welchville Sunday afternoon to meet her mother. I went with them to spend a few days with the Bean-Turner family in Otisfield.

Ethel drove me to Portland Monday for a medical appointment. We stopped in Windham on the way home. Ice has just about cleared from Thompson Lake.

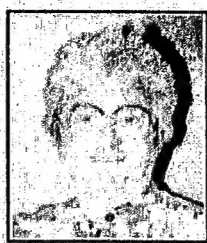

As far as I can see ice is out of Songo Pond and the water birds have returned.

Sympathy of relatives and friends in this area is extended to Mrs. Ralston Bennett and family. She was the former Mildred Kimball of Albany.

Ethel and I drove to Fryeburg Thursday evening for visiting hours at the Wood Funeral Home. We met Dottie Adams and Norma Salway there and I came home with them. Over beyond Stoneham a moose crossed the highway in front of us, turned and recrossed the road. It was a good thing we had come to a complete stop.

Robins have returned in full force along with grackles and smaller birds. Jeanne Abbott and Seth of West Sumner, Bruce and Nelda Buck of Lewiston were recent guests at Heritage Farm.

I joined Melanie Farmer of Augusta, Kathy, Nathan and James Williford of Oakland and friend, Joe of Sidney in a mountain climb in Camden followed by an overnight tenting excursion at a campground in Warren last weekend.

My Phoebe Bird came back today. He greeted me as I walked the Bulldozer Road, April 13. So prop open the shed door, there is a changing of the guard. Phoebe may want to go in.

Soon there will be violets in the meadows, hepaticas in the woods and marigolds nodding in the sun as the long parade of wildflowers gets underway in April. All through the spring and summer the bright colors of wildflowers decorate the green of our fields. Then there are those that stand out in the masses, that multiply and thrive like the pale sheets of little blueets or the enameled yellow of buttercups. So as the wheel of summer revolves, the daisies, asters and the golden rods spread away in waves of color. All summer long we live among the color and beauty of many kinds of flowers.

I remember reading that Winston Churchill, as he observed the flowers said, "A love of flowers is one of the noblest qualities of the human mind," then added, "You can live a long time with a geranium."

One never tires of the wild flowers for it's a place that even a weed can lift its head and be admired.

My sister Leona Whitman has had heart surgery and she is doing well. Albert Curtis, his wife, Marie, his mother, Rena, and I were in Portland last week where I had an appointment with my eye doctor. Then we stopped in Poland to visit my brother, Ernest Curtis on our way home.

On Sunday, Ann Holt and I stopped at the farm on our way home from church. David, Sally and Mary joined us for dinner.

This morning, April 13, I heard a great noise commotion near the pond. I went out to see what was happening. I saw eighteen geese flying just above the water and each one was cackling as loud as he, she could. What a noise they made.

Walter and Kim Inman, Vernie Inman and Walter and Alta Waterhouse have recently returned from a vacation in Florida. Walter and family traveled with Kim's brother Alan Waterhouse and his wife Pam in their motor home. Alta flew down where she met daughters Nadine Miller and Linda Lawton. A great time was had by all as they took in many of the attractions.

Vernon and Miriam Inman also returned home last Friday after a vacation in Florida. We visited with Pete Andrews, Phyllis Young, Sayward and Cynthia Lamb, Phil and Virginia Hyam and Aunt Millie Wentzell, Erland and Margie Wentzell. The weather was so nice and warm, it would have been nice to come back to some warmer weather. Guess we did miss a snowstorm and high winds.

Forward fellowship will meet on Monday, April 24 at Goodwill Hall for a 6 p.m. pot luck supper and meeting.

Last Friday, Joyce Lamb joined daughter Wendy Lamb, friend Savina and Willis Hayes and went to Washington, D.C., where they did sight-seeing on Saturday. On Sunday they participated in the march of the Rally Against Violence. They returned home on Monday.

Reminder: The Greenwood Fire Department is sponsoring a game party at the Legion Hall Sunday, April 23.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary will hold its meeting Monday, April 24 at 6:30 p.m. at the Fire Station.

I haven't caught up with Donna Downs yet, but I did find Ted's address. It is McKerley Health Care Center, 239 Pleasant St., Rm. 229W, Concord, N.H. 03301.

I was very sorry as I'm sure others in the community are to hear about the death of Helen Varner Judkins' husband, Paul. We offer sincere condolences as we do to the family of Viva Whitman. It has not been an easy Spring for many people. I can hardly believe it has been two years on the 15th that I lost my husband, John. But spring also is a time to celebrate new birth so I'm sure newcomers to our world will arrive soon and then we can rejoice. Someone reminded me that Aimee Walker Bean and husband, Tim, have a new son. Sister Chelsea says she has a "big" little brother. He is a nine pounder. Congratulations, folks.

Charlotte Cole and Vera Cross were at Victorian Villa, Canton one day last week. Charlotte did a program for the people there, Lawrence (Sammy) Mason usually goes to the program but he was not feeling at all well so he stayed in his bed. We hope he gets better soon.

I attended the Easter Cantata at the Church of the Nazarene Sunday evening. Becky Cobb Lawrence wrote the narration and directed it. It was very good. They have a lot of good singers. There was a refreshment time after. We had had a missions dinner at our church that noon so I got a bit off my diet. I'm not supposed to call it a diet, I'm told. It is just "healthy eating." Too bad "healthy eating" doesn't include some of those goodies that always show up at special programs.

Charlotte Cole says she sang for her supper at the Legion Hall chicken bash. Bertha Walker got the Easter basket and the money raised from the basket was donated to the Locke Mills Union Church.

My son-in-law, Jon Smith, celebrated his 38th birthday on April 8 at his home in Presque Isle. I did remember in time to give him a call but his and son Ralph's cards are still in the "to do" file.

Vera Cross and Charlotte Cole called in to see Hilda Dragoon, West Peru and took her a friendship cake on their way back from Canton. Charlotte said she also visited Peggy Verrill of Bryant Pond Monday. Her daughter had gone on a trip and she was lonesome. Charlotte says she will be 90 years old in the summer. Peggy that is-not Charlotte.

Gerry Shimamura and I were in Norway Wednesday doing some shopping. We planned to go to Lewiston but got too late a start. Gerry had to get back as they were having a Passover Celebration at the church in the evening. I hustled around and went, too. It was very interesting. We were served lamb and herbs and parsley dipped in a brine, a typical Passover meal. The consensus of the children was that the lamb was good but they were not in favor of the herbs and parsley. I suspect some of the adults felt the same way, but were less inclined to say so.

Charlotte Cole will do a program at the Senior Citizen's dinner at the Canton Fire Station next Thursday. She is a busy lady.

My sister-in-law, MaryEllen Mills, celebrated her birthday April 12 at the home of her brother and wife, Donald and Marolyn Mills. I visited her the evening of April 13 and took her a present.

CHRISTMAS TREE CLASS OF '01—The SAD44 Kids for Trees Project is now in its sixth year on P.H. Chadbourne's Route 26 property, and Jim Chandler, District Manager of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District, says its been a learning experience for both the adults and kids. Students plant fir trees as third-graders, and care for them throughout their school career. The plan is to sell the trees to defray graduation costs for each class, with the Class of '98 being the pilot class. Chandler said last week some frost problems during the first three years hindered the balsam trees' growth, but a switch in 1992 to hardier Caneau fir has brought about much better results. The earlier classes should still have some trees to sell, though. "We're looking at this more as resource management, rather than a 'pet tree' project, which was how it started out," Chandler said last week. "The kids fertilize and mulch the trees. Now they'll need to work on pruning and shaping them." The kids raise money as third-graders to start their trees, and the Maine Forest Service helps with the planting. Over the years bird and bat houses have been added at the site as another side to the project. Here, Chandler shows off a Caneau fir tree, part of the approximately 150 trees planted by the Class of '01. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Ever Meet Anybody Who's Been Hit By A Train?

Didn't think so.

But last year alone, over 6,000 people were hit. Some were in their cars or trucks. Others were on foot. But most of them had ignored warning signs or trespassed on train property. And, as you can probably guess, the results weren't pretty—over 3,500 of those people were killed or maimed for life.

Now avoiding a train is entirely up to you. And it's actually not hard to do. If you slow down at every highway-rail crossing, you'll be able to see or hear an approaching train. And if there's any sign of a train, all you have to do is stop. Never trespass on train property or walk on the tracks. Don't try to beat the train. And never make the deadly mistake of ignoring the flashing red lights or crossing gates because you're sure they're broken. A lot of people die thinking just that.

Not you, of course. You always expect a train. You know exactly what to do when you approach the tracks. And now you know why.

Hutchinson wins Merit Scholarship

Gould Academy senior Kendra Hutchinson, daughter of Sue Hutchinson of Bethel and Tom Hutchinson of Bethel, has been awarded an International Paper Merit Scholarship. One of 6,700 scholarship winners nationwide, Hutchinson initially competed against about 1.1 million students who took the 1993 PSAT/NMSQT. The scholarship, which may range between $500 and $2,000 annually, will be used to support her college studies. She is currently deciding between attending Wellesley College or New York University. An honor roll student, Hutchinson spent her winter trimester this year studying in Spain. She starts for Gould's varsity lacrosse team and played varsity soccer in the fall.

TELSTAR GRADS ON UMF TEAM

Two Telstar graduates are members of the University of Maine at Farmington baseball team for the 1995 season.

Scott Dulin of Andover, a sophomore, is a pitcher/infielder. Chris Howe of Bryant Pond, a freshman, plays infield.

The team is coached by Dick Meaders.

Tennis

Gould 3, NYA 2

Gould's boys' varsity tennis team beat North Yarmouth Academy 3-2 on Monday, April 10.

Playing first singles, junior Mark Harries beat his opponent 6-4, 7-5. Rob Graves, '95, won a marathon second singles match in the tie-breaker set 6-2, 7-6, 7-5.

Junior Lucas St. Clair trounced his adversary in third singles 6-1, 6-0. Gould's doubles teams did not fare as well, however. Chris Shearer, '96, and Jason Gazzilli, '95, lost 4-6, 2-6. Though they rallied in the second set, Jon Strazza, '97, and Asher Ghermer, '97, lost as well, 2-6, 4-6.

In contrast to their season opener against Kents Hill, in which the doubles matches secured the victory for Gould, the singles made the difference against a strong NYA team.

"Our singles players rose to the occasion against North Yarmouth," said coach Steve Sanborn. Sanborn was also pleased by Gould's win in an exhibition doubles match. Juniors John Batten and Ethan Covey came back after losing the first set to win the match in the tie breaker, 2-6, 7-6, 7-6.

Boys' JV LaCrosse

NYA 9, Gould 1

In their season opener April 12, the boys playing junior varsity lacrosse received some hard lessons from North Yarmouth Academy. Though Gould lost 9-1, coach Peter Rackliffe believes that this game is just part of the learning curve. "It was their first time on the field," he said. "The new players started to figure things out by the second half." Gould's lone goal was scored by one of the newcomers, Swedish exchange student Christoffer Sandberg. Rackliffe predicted his team would be more competitive in its next game.

Girls' LaCrosse

Gould 17, Oxford Hills 2

Gould's girls beat Oxford Hills decisively on April 13 in a pre-season scrimmage, outshooting the Vikings 42-6. Erin McCormick and Hannah Quimby put in four goals each, while Kendra Hutchinson scored a hat trick. Thea Murphy, Amber MacKenzie, and Brit Cooper scored two each.

Girls' JV LaCrosse

Gould 6, Oxford Hills 0

The JV Huskies dominated in their game to win 6-0, also on April 13. Abby Lefebvre scored four goals, while Christine Monzel and Marcy La Vallee scored one each.

GOULD WINS MARATHON MATCH. Gould Academy's Rob Graves '95 won a marathon second singles match against North Yarmouth Academy 6-2, 7-6, 7-5. Gould beat NYA 3-2 and remains undefeated with a 3-0 record. (Photo by Scott Jerome)

LOW-INCOME HOME LOANS

The local office of Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD), formerly Farmers Home Administration, is currently taking applications for its 504 housing repair and rehabilitation loan and grant program, according to County Supervisor Alden R. Turner.

The program is for very low-income owners of existing dwellings and mobile homes who need to remove health or safety hazards, and can include energy conservation measures such as insulation and heating systems. Other development items can include septic systems, wells, roofs, and handicap facilities.

Example annual income limits for Oxford County are: family of two, $12,700; family of four, $15,900; family of six, $18,450.

Loans are financed at 1 percent interest, with a maximum term of 20 years, stated Turner, while grants are limited to those applicants who are at least 62 years of age. Loan limits are $15,000, while maximum grant assistance available is $5,000.

Persons interested in this program and other eligibility requirements should contact the South Paris County Office at 743-7017. Personnel are available to assist with the application process.

'UP WITH PEOPLE' TO APPEAR IN SOUTH PARIS

The international cast of Up With People will perform their show "World in Motion" for the whole family on Monday, May 1, and Tuesday, May 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Oxford Hills High School Gymnasium. Tickets for the Up With People shows are $11 for adults and $9 for students and seniors.

Tickets may be purchased at the Oxford Shop 'n Save, Reny's Department Store in Bridgton, and Books-n-Things in Oxford and Bethel.

For more information call 539-2290. The show is sponsored by the Oxford Hills Music, Art, and Drama Boosters along with WOXO Radio and the Sun-Journal/Sunday. A portion of the proceeds will benefit the Oxford Hills Music, Art, and Drama Boosters.

Rotary Club notes:

Regular meetings of the Rotary Club will resume at the Bethel Inn on April 25 at the usual time (7:30 to 8:30 a.m.), after two weeks of meeting at the Masonic Hall.

The club's recent programs included a guided tour of the Sunday River Brewing Company on March 21, The Country Breakfast on Sunday, March 26 was a great success, raising over $600 for Gould Academy Foundation and Educational Assistance Fund (the club presents between $3,000-$4,000 every year in local scholarships). The club has received donations in the memory of Charles A. Feld, a longtime friend and fellow Rotarian, who passed away March 14. They will be presenting a scholarship in his name, this year, with donation proceeds.

Upcoming programs include a work day to refurbish the Crescent Park School ballfield dugouts before ball season gets into full swing. The Community Service Committee will be overseeing this project, as well as finishing up a Family Activities Directory (things for residents and visitors to do in our area). They are asking supporters (who will be listed in the directory) for a $10 donation, to cover printing costs.

Many of the club members will be attending the Rotary District Assembly at the University of New England in Biddeford on April 29.

President Ted Davis has appointed a special committee, made up of past club presidents, to prepare new guidelines for their classification and membership process, according to regulations set forth by Rotary International.

BETHEL SENIORS CITIZENS

Bethel Senior Citizens met at 11 a.m. at the Frozen Logger, April 12 in Bryant Pond, with 90 present for a meeting and delicious dinner of pot roast and all the fixings. Easter cake was from the Hometown Bakery.

Helen Saunders, president, conducted the meeting and suggested that Tessie Martin, Florabel Haines, Dorothy Harris and Ruth Bethel should be remembered as shut-ins. On the birthday list are: Helena Bartlett, Donald W. Bennett, Ruth Bethel, Barbara Douglass, Rose Dyer, Wilma Gorman, Jane Hosterman, Kathleen McAllister, Evelyn Reed, Barbara Ripley, Joan Royer, Heywood Sawyer, Dennis Swan, Hope Tibbets, Jean Taber, Barbara Wakefield and Nancy Weber.

Muriel Faudi reported on cards sent, Sarah Stevens on finances and Rudy Royer on fundraising. Silver Saver jars are still accepted.

Polly Davis won an Easter hat and chances are being taken on a lovely quilt donated by Shirley Lowell.

Lindley Wieden read several jokes and reported that the Defensive Driving Course for seniors will be held at the Ethel Beebe School, sponsored by Adult Education and AARP, May 2 and 3 from 1 to 4 p.m. The cost is $8 and participants should call Adult Ed.

The next meeting will be a week later than usual, May 17, at the Town & Country in Shelburne, N.H. A turkey dinner with all the fixings is $8 for members.

The program consisted of an entertaining clown act by Sheila Curtis of Tricker Fox Productions of Woodstock, assisted briefly by Henry Robertson.

Small business plan workshops

The Service Corps of Retired Executives Association will sponsor two workshops on Starting a Small Business. Topics to be covered are "Creating Your Vision-Developing Your Plan," "Financing Your Business with Conventional and Subordinated Sources," and "Your Marketing Plan and Competitive Pricing." Wednesday, April 26, Rumford Municipal Building Conference Room and May 3, Farmington at the Homestead Bakery and Deli on Broadway.

Both locations are disabled accessible, the Municipal Building via River Street. Time of both workshops 8:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. There will be a charge of $10 for either workshop. To get an application or to reserve a place call 207-364-2478 or 207-364-3733 or send a check for $10 per person made out to SCORE c/o Fleet Bank, P.O. Box 400, 108 Congress St., Rumford, Maine 04276. Indicate on the check your preference for either workshop.

Speakers will be three small business professionals. Sonja Christensen is regional program manager and mentoring program director of the Women's Business Development Corporation, Bangor. She owned and operated her own business for 20 years. On April 25 she is to be honored by SCORE and the Maine Small Business Advisory Council as "Women In Business Advocate of the Year."

News from the

The Bethel Library

Spring is here and plans are underway for the Bethel Library's fund raisers.

The Amish quilt created by the Cross Country Quilters is on display in the main room of the library and tickets may be purchased from a library trustee or at the circulation desk. The drawing will be held on Mollycodd Day.

The perennial plant sale will be held on June 3 at the Bethel Fire Station. It is a little early to begin working in gardens, but please mark the date on your calendar if you are interested in purchasing plants and/or donating perennials from your garden. The perennial plant sale is a wonderful way to purchase hardy plants and benefit the library at the same time. This year we will also be holding a cook-book sale at the plant sale.

Finally, there will be a used book sale on the front lawn of the library on Mollycodd Day. As always, we are happy to take donations of used books from the public, but Reader's Digest condensed books and old textbooks do not sell, so please do not include those in your donation.

Update on the Summer Reading Program field trip to the Portland Sea Dogs game, Aug. 21: Eight people have called to chaperone the trip and some families have indicated an interest in purchasing extra tickets for family members who are too young or too old to participate in the program.

Please remember the library will provide one or two buses to transport children and chaperones to the game, but the buses will be reserved for program participants (fall first-graders through fall fifth-graders).

Older and younger brothers and sisters may meet the group at the game, but they must buy their own tickets and arrange their own transportation to the game. The phone number for ticket sales is 207-879-9500 and tickets should be purchased as soon as possible.

Thanks to the The Bethel Citizen for presenting a bound copy of its 1994 editions to the Bethel Library. These bound volumes are shelved upstairs in the study room and they are very popular with students and researchers. Thanks also to Mona Lowe for donating "Imagine Me on a Sit-Ski" by George Moran. This children's story about a boy with cerebral palsy who learns to ski with adaptive equipment was donated to honor the volunteers of the Maine Handicapped Ski Program at Sunday River.

Bicentennial Committee notes:

By JUNE ABBOTT

The Bethel Bicentennial Committee established the following committees at their meeting on April 9: Fund Raising, Children's Events, Music and Parade, Militia, Pageant, Races, Calendar, Poster, Public Relations, Food/Refreshments, Safety/Logistics. At the same meeting, it was announced that Margaret Joy Tibbets has agreed to be honorary chairman of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee. Final appointments for the steering committee will be made soon. Contact Stan Howe at 824-2291, if you are interested in serving in any capacity.

Several gowns that will be featured in "Bethel Belles and Brides" will be part of the next "Nan's Niche" on Channel 4. This will be a preview of the event to be held on May 20 at the Gehring House at 2 p.m. All proceeds are to benefit the 1996 Bethel Bicentennial celebration. Chairpersons Danna Nickerson, 824-2049, and Ruth Grover, 824-2989, will have tickets available soon.

The Bethel Bicentennial Committee has received its initial entries to the Logo Contest and encourages everyone to enter. Mail your entries to Bethel Bicentennial Committee, P.O. Box 995, Bethel, Me., 04217 by May 15. Guidelines are available from the committee or on local bulletin in town.

The next Bethel Bicentennial Committee meeting is Sunday evening, April 23, at Stan Howe's home on Broad Street at 7 p.m.

BETHEL BELLES AND BRIDES—Co-chairperson Danna Nickerson and models Vickie Coolidge, Jaime Grover and Kate Nickerson (seated) look over two of the older gowns being used in the "Bethel Belles and Brides" fashion show fund-raiser. Scheduled for 2 p.m., Saturday, May 20, at the Gehring House in Bethel, the show will feature wedding gowns and evening attire worn by the ladies of Bethel from 1869 to the present. Twenty-eight models will showcase more than 60 gowns from two centuries with commentary by Ed Hitchcock providing the history behind them. Tickets will be available soon from chairpersons Danna Nickerson, 824-2049, and Ruth Grover, 824-2989, and at Ruthie's and Preb's Pharmacy, both on Main Street in Bethel. All proceeds to benefit the 1996 Bethel Bicentennial Celebration. (Photo by Don Brown)

Drama and music at Telstar

Telstar High School Drama Club and the choral music club will combine Thursday and Friday, April 27 and 28 at 7 p.m. for an entertaining evening of two one-act plays, monologues and several choral numbers. Kathy Burke has started a choral music program at Telstar High School this year and the students will sing between plays. Bunty Latham directs two one-act plays, "After Magritte," a British comedy presented at the one-act play festival, and "Just Desserts," a farce by Pat Cook.

From the UM Cooperative Extension:

Oxford County 4-H Program Expands

The Oxford County 4-H program continues to grow in community clubs, school-based clubs, and in classroom educational programming. Many communities across Oxford County have very active clubs working on individual and group activities, community service projects, leadership activities, and participate in many county-wide 4-H events. School-based clubs can work within the classroom or after school and are full-fledged 4-H clubs.

4-H clubs can begin at any time during the year and are then re-enrolled each October. The new 4-H clubs in the classroom project, CATALYST, and ROTA are just a few of the newer educational projects in schools county-wide. There is currently a need for general club leaders in Fryeburg, Lovell, Rumford, Mexico, and Andover. The Guy E. Rowe School in Norway is also interested in possibly starting an after-school 4-H club which would require two leaders.

Adults considering volunteer work and who enjoy teaching and advising young people, might consider 4-H. 4-H offers leaders county-wide support, free educational materials, leader training, and many new friends. 4-H is a Youth Development Program of the University of Maine Cooperative Extension. The program is open to all boys and girls in grades K-12 county-wide.

For more information about 4-H and the Cooperative Extension, call Susan Jennings at 743-6329 or 1-800-187-1482.

WEST PARIS GRANGE

Plans are underway to celebrate Grange Week at West Paris Grange 298, beginning with a special State of Maine booster night. A community service open house night program will be held at 7:30 p.m. on April 20 at the West Paris Grange Hall, 4 Church Street.

The Community Service Award will be presented to a local couple who have devoted their lives to helping the community. The rest of the program will consist of the Richard Felt Grange Band, the Bedard Trio, speaker Oxford County Sheriff Skip Herrick, a DARE skit by fifth-graders from the Agnes Gray School, a humorous skit by Peggy Blake, Russell Yates and Richard Felt, and dancing by the Finnish-American Dancers.

The grange was the first fraternal organization for farmers. It was organized in 1867. The grange also helped start the rural federal delivery of mail. There are well over 275,000 grange members in 37 states at the present time.

The public is invited to attend and enjoy this special open house program.

The Grange Week celebration will conclude with a "Go to Church Sunday" on April 23 at the Mission Congregational Church, Church Street, West Paris.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Members of Jackson-Silver American Legion Auxiliary were curious about the reason when asked to meet jointly with members of the Post prior to their regular meetings on April 6.

The reason became apparent when Commander Earl Tyler produced a large cake with blue and white icing, red roses, and "Happy 75th Birthday" which he presented to the Unit. Gifts consisted of three graduated, large stainless steel pots for the kitchen so the auxiliary can keep on cooking, a knife set with holder, and three large mats for the kitchen to ease the effects on the feet and backs of standing long hours at the sinks and stoves.

Cake and ice cream were enjoyed before the business meetings.

All this year the American Legion Auxiliary is celebrating its 75th birthday. When the American Legion held its first convention in 1919 the members authorized formation of an auxiliary, and by their 1920 convention, 1,342 local auxiliary units had been organized. The Auxiliary had its first convention at Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1-2, 1921.

In this week's meeting the Unit continued planning for future events. On April 11 they will be having a public "Musical Supper" which consists of a meal with chicken pie, a few entertainment acts, dancing to the Richard Felt Band, some door prizes and a general good time. This will start at 5:30 p.m. at a cost of $5, children under 12, $2.50. Proceeds go toward the purchase of a generator for the Legion Hall. This is a joint effort of the Post and Unit to assist area residents who might be in need of shelter and food in case of a disaster or prolonged power outage.

It was announced that the annual Girls State Tea will be a 2 p.m., April 23, hosted by the Rumford Unit at their hall. All present and former delegates are invited to attend, parents also invited.

Another tea is planned for April 30 at 2 p.m. at which time other Units in Oxford County are invited to attend and bring any 75-year members which they may have. Fannie Cummings is the only one in the Jackson-Silver Unit.

Noreen Russo and Olive Risko reported having attended the testimonial for Lester Prue and Glenda Gordan, district commander and president, respectively, which was held at Dixfield on April 1.

The next meeting of the Unit is at 7 p.m., April 20; the County Council meeting is at 7:30 p.m. April 18 at Dixfield for installation; and the Second District meets at Mechanic Falls at 2 p.m. on May 14 for nominations and elections.

V.F.W. NEWS

The Bethel Memorial Post 11353 held its monthly meeting on April 13. The following items were addressed and voted on:

1. The annual Route 26 cleanup dates are April 29 and May 6, both on Saturday. Members will meet at Davis Park at 8 a.m. and hand out plastic bags and safety vests. Any individuals or groups are encouraged to help. Pickup trucks are needed.
2. The Post held the election for their new officers for 1995-96. The installation of the new officers will be conducted on May 11 and all Post members are encouraged to attend.

3. The Department of Maine State Convention will be held in Lewiston on June 9, 10, and 11. Any member wishing to attend, please contact the Post Commander.

4. The Candlelight Memorial Service for our fallen comrades will be held on May 28 at dusk. The color guards will assemble at the Common and march down Main Street to the Civil War monument where the service will be held. Coffee and snacks will be available at the Lions Hall afterward.

Post commander Delma McMillin also expressed his thanks to Jackson-Silver Legion Post 68 for allowing the V.F.W. to have their fund-raising bingo held on March 19.

Conservation Dept. says Maine clearcutting in decline

Clearcutting in Maine's forests has declined from pre-Forest Practices Act levels of 145,000 acres annually to about 51,000 acres annually according to a Maine Department of Conservation evaluation of Maine's Forest Practices Act (FPA). The evaluation was conducted by the Maine Forest Service at the direction of the 116th Legislature, and was presented recently in Augusta to the legislature's Joint Standing Committee on Agriculture, Conservation and Forestry.

According to Maine Department of Conservation Commissioner Ronald B. Lovaglio, the evaluation, designed by natural resource specialists for the university, state and federal agencies, private conservation organizations and forest industry, provides the first reliable, scientific and statistically sound data to facilitate continued discussion of the effects of the FPA on current forest management practices in Maine.

"The evaluation shows that most of Maine's forest land is being properly managed for the long-term, and that the FPA has had an effect to reduce the size of clearcuts," Commissioner Lovaglio said.

The evaluation of the FPA's first three years of full implementation (1991 to 1993 inclusive) indicated that clearcutting, as a percentage of all harvest, declined for 18 to 11 percent. The report says the decline in clearcutting is a response to the end of budworm salvaging as well as a direct response the FPA, and to public concern. "The FPA has caused landowners to plan and consider alternatives before creating clearcut," the report claims.

The evaluation shows that during the study period, partial harvests of trees occurred on 86 percent of all reported harvested acres. The study indicates that healthy stands remained after partial harvesting on 85 percent of the harvested acres indicating that a large majority of forest landowners are harvesting to retain residual stocking that is significantly better than the FPA's minimum standards for partial harvests.

The study noted that low quality residual stands, primarily on small, private ownerships, were left on 15 percent of the partially harvested acres. "This situation has not occurred in response to the FPA -- this practice continues despite the FPA. High grading will continue as long as landowners harvest for maximum dollar value, without planning for the next stand," the report concludes.

In response to the FPA, the study says that nearly three-quarters of all clearcut acres occur as 35-acre clearcuts or smaller. Prior to FPA regulations, clearcuts larger than 125 acres were common, the report says.

Although the evaluation states that clearcuts are most frequently distributed on the landscape as single harvests or in small groups of clearcuts, the report to the legislature indicates that nearly half (48 percent) of all clearcut acres under FPA rules occur in large concentrations in approximately 44 locations in northern and western Maine.

"This study made no attempt to characterize pre-FPA, clearcutting patterns. To conduct a thorough analysis of the change in clearcutting patterns, recent satellite imagery should be obtained to make comparisons to the 1990 benchmark," the report recommends.

The evaluation found that 96 percent of all sample sites were adequately stocked with sound trees needed to regenerate the next stand. Spruce, fir, pine and hemlock were the dominant regeneration species on 68 percent of the sample sites.

According to the report, in the majority of sample sites where harvesting did occur in the separation zones required by the FPA between clearcuts, harvests in the separation zones were conducted in a manner that preserves the quality and function of the residual stand. Harvesting did not occur in approximately one-third of all separation zones.

The evaluation was designed in consultation with a technical advisory group, including faculty from the University of Maine College of Forest Resources, U.S. Forest Service inventory specialists, wildlife specialists from the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, and representatives of private environmental organizations and forest industry.

An executive summary of "An Evaluation Of The Effects Of The Forest Practices Act" may be obtained from the Maine Forest Service, Station 22, Augusta, Maine, 04333; telephone in-state, 1-800-367-0223.

Matters of Health

From Boston University Medical Center

ROOT CANALS: Don't be deceived by misconceptions

I am a 26-year-old female and I injured one of my front teeth when I was young. Recently, the tooth has been aching, and my dentist told me I need a root canal. I've heard horrible stories about root canals, and am very hesitant to have this procedure done. Should I be as worried as I am?

Your apprehension is understandable. Root canals are certainly among the least popular and most infamous of dental treatments, and they are known to have caused many of our parents and grandparents some unpleasant moments. However, as is true with many dental and medical treatments, modern techniques have rendered root canals as routine as a common tooth filling.

A root canal is performed to save a tooth, and the only alternative to this procedure is to have the tooth extracted, according to Manuel Hoyo, DMD, an endodontist at the Boston University Goldman School of Graduate Dentistry. Therefore, it is always in a patient's best interest to have a root canal performed, and, in your case, where pain has become a factor, to have it done as soon as possible.

The term root canal is as out-dated as many of the horror stories you may have heard about the procedure. Today, the term endodontic therapy is used instead, referring to the process of removing infected or damaged tissue from inside a tooth and cleaning, filling and sealing the remaining space. The word endodontic is derived from Greek terms -- "endo," meaning inside, and "odont," meaning tooth.

There are several reasons why endodontic therapy may be needed to save a tooth: The soft tissue, or pulp, inside the tooth may have been damaged by physical trauma, gum disease, deep decay or infection. All of these conditions cause the normal circulation of blood inside the tiny veins in the pulp of a tooth to stop flowing, and, as a result, the tooth begins to die.

The body's immune system will try to fight the condition inside the tooth, creating a demarcation around the base, or root, of the tooth. "This demarcation, or 'halo,' is a mixed blessing," Hoyo says. While it may disguise symptoms of a damaged tooth, the necrotic pulp inside the tooth continues to fester. The affected pulp may cause the tooth to ache and to be sensitive to heat, cold, pressure or touch. Also, the gum around the tooth may swell and become sore, and the tooth itself may become discolored. If these symptoms go unchecked for long enough, or if the affected tooth experiences additional trauma, the festering pulp inside the tooth may break the balance created by the immune system. Once through the root, the necrotic pulp infection will work its way into the bone, where arteries and veins supply an affected tooth with its main source of nourishment. Eventually, the entire tooth will be compromised and will have to be extracted.

People who are experiencing any of the above described symptoms, or who suspect that they may need endodontic therapy, should see a dentist or endodontist right away. While both dentists and endodontists are in the business of saving teeth, endodontists have advanced training in saving teeth with deep decay and teeth that have sustained traumatic injury or have been knocked out. Endodontic therapy has a very high success rate -- more than 90 percent of teeth that have been treated are saved. If endodontic therapy fails, endodontic surgery is an option. Surgical procedures include removing inflamed gum tissue, removing more than one tooth root, dividing a tooth in half, or removing, treating and then reinserting a tooth. If surgery is unsuccessful, the affected tooth or teeth must be removed.

The actual process of conducting endodontic therapy takes an average of two or three office visits for a routine treatment, Hoyo says. All procedures are performed under local anesthetic. For posterior, or back, teeth, an opening is made at the top, or crown, of the tooth; then the pulp is removed from the middle and from deep within root canals of the tooth. Medication may then be placed inside the root canals to combat infection. When the root canals are completely clean, shaped and free of infection, they are filled with an organic material, called gutta percha, and the tooth is sealed with a permanent filling or some other protective covering, such as a cap. For anterior, or front, teeth, a small hole is drilled behind the tooth, and the same process is followed. Between visits, temporary fillings are used to protect the tooth.

The gutta percha inside a restored tooth allows for the reestablishment of a healthy periodontium, which is the entire base of the tooth. With proper brushing, flossing and regular dental visits, that tooth can last a lifetime.

This "Matters of Health" was written in cooperation with Manuel Hoyo, DMD, an endodontist at the Boston University Goldman School of Graduate Dentistry, a division of Boston University Medical Center. Readers with questions about endodontic therapy or those who wish to discuss other health issues, may contact BUMC Health Connection at 617-638-6767.

The New Locke Mountain Townhouses

PHASE I & II SOLD OUT
PHASE III NOW AVAILABLE

Trail Elevation

Slopeside ♦ Quality Construction ♦ Panoramic Views

Ski to your door in the afternoon. Stoke up the fire -- and relax. Watch the sun set over the spectacular Mahoosuc mountain range... from the livingroom of your new Locke Mountain Townhouse.

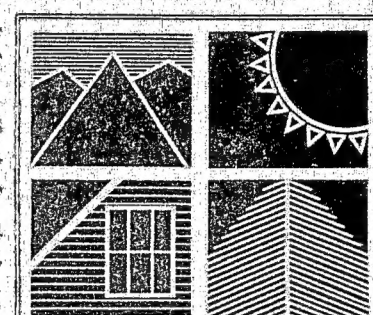

It's more than a slopeside condo--it's a true four-season second home. Superior construction. The utmost in convenience and privacy. You'll enjoy the fully-equipped kitchen... the cathedral ceilings... the large master bedroom... the plush wall-to-wall carpeting... the tasteful and comfortable design.

Select from two spacious floor plans. In the 1800 square-foot configuration, you'll enjoy three large bedrooms, a loft, a daylight basement and the luxury of three full baths.

In the 1660 square-foot configuration, you'll relax with three full bedrooms and two and a half baths.

Each winter, you'll step out the door and into your skis. In the summer, you can hike, mountain bike, fish, golf and explore the cool green mountains. Obituaries

RALSTON A. BENNETT

Ralston A. Bennett, 78, died Monday, April 10, 1995 at Northern Cumberland Memorial Hospital in Bridgton after a long illness.

He was born in Fryeburg, a son of Erlon and Gela Hall Bennett, and attended local elementary schools, graduating from Fryeburg Academy in 1936.

He married Mildred Kimball of Albany Township in 1937. They spent most of their married life in North Fryeburg and Lovell.

For most of his life, Mr. Bennett was involved in trucking. He hauled for J.D. Deering in Biddeford and also hauled to the shipyard in South Portland during World War II. He also was instrumental in the start of Lovell Village Garage in 1957.

He and his wife purchased Center Hill Lodge in Lovell, which they operated as a bed-and-breakfast establishment for several years.

Mr. Bennett enjoyed hunting, fishing and snowmobiling.

Survivors besides his wife include a son, Norris of Lovell; a daughter, Meredith Harmon of Naples, Fla.; a brother, Alonzo of Lovell and of Florida; a sister, Sylvia Thompson of Fryeburg; two half-brothers, George and Lloyd Drew; four grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; two step grandchildren and four step great-grandchildren.

A funeral was held on Friday at 11 a.m. at the Bradley Memorial Church in Fryeburg Harbor, with the Rev. Dana Beth Wells-Goodwin officiating. Burial will be in No. 4 Cemetery. Arrangements are by Wood Funeral Home, Fryeburg.

HELVI MARIE TUCCI

Helvi Marie (Heikkinen) Tucci, 76, of Pepperell, Mass. and formerly of Littleton, Mass. and West Paris, died Tuesday, April 11, 1995 at the Colony Nursing Home in Abington, Mass.

She was born in West Paris on Dec. 11, 1918, the daughter of Emil and Matta (Koummlainen) Heikkinen and the wife of the late Ralph J. Tucci who died in 1985. She was raised in West Paris and was a graduate of Woodstock High School in the class of 1936. After her marriage in 1944, Helvi made her home in Wallham, Mass. until 1957, then moved on to Littleton, Mass. until 1985 and then Pepperell, Mass. She and her husband summered in Bryant Pond and was a lifelong member of the Finnish American Society.

Mrs. Tucci is survived by a son and daughter-in-law, R. Joseph and Wendy Tucci of Waterbury; a daughter and son-in-law, Sandra and Ronald Pacy of Bridgewater, Mass.; and two grandchildren.

Katie Tucci and Alyssa Pacy.

She is also survived by two sisters in laws, Laura Heikkinen and Elinor Heikkinen.

Graveside services were held on Monday, April 17, 1995 at 11 a.m. at the West Paris Finnish Cemetery with Pastor Lloyd Waterhouse officiating. Visiting hours were Saturday, April 15 at the Andrews Funeral Home, Andrews Road, South Woodstock.

ELBERT E. TYLER

Elbert E. Tyler, age 86, died Thursday, April 13, 1995, at Lodgeview Nursing Home, West Paris, where he had been a resident for three years.

Mr. Tyler was born in Oxford on Nov. 12, 1908, the son of Edward A. and Lula M. Whitman Tyler. He attended Oxford and Norway schools and graduated from Norway High School. He worked for many years as a weaver at the Robinson Manufacturing in Oxford and retired from there in 1973.

He was a member of the Knights of Pythias of Norway, a former member of the Weary Club of Norway and was an avid fisherman when his health permitted. He lived in Oxford for most of his life and married Katherine Day, who died in 1971. He then married Mildred Swan Cummings on Dec. 1, 1973, who survives.

Besides his wife of West Paris, he is survived by three stepchildren: Phillip H. Cummings of Locke Mills, Joyce C. Hathaway of South Woodstock, and Herman C. Cummings, Jr., of Bethel. He is also survived by several stepchildren and step great-grandchildren.

Interment was at the Norway Grove Cemetery.

IVY E. THURSTON

Miss Ivy E. Thurston, 94, died Saturday, April 15, 1995 at the Rumford Community Home in Rumford. Since 1905 she had resided in Andover and in 1987 she moved to Rumford. She was born in Errol, N.H. on Aug. 28, 1900, the daughter of Ralph and Emily (Lohme) Thurston. She attended Andover schools and graduated from Andover High School in the Class of 1918.

For several years she had worked for the Andover Telephone Office and later for over 40 years at the Andover Post Office including on two occasions serving as post master before retiring in 1967.

She was the oldest living member and had been very active in the First Congregational Church of Andover, especially in the Ladies Aid of the church and had served for many years as a Sunday School teacher and superintendent and church agent.

Survivors include five nephews, John T. Howard of Rumford, Fred J. Howard Jr. and Ralph D. Howard of South Portland, Lester R. Thurston Jr. of State College, Penn., and William C. Thurston of Weston, Mass.; and several great-nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by a sister, Mrs. Della Howard, who died in Rumford, Sept. 4, 1993 and a brother Lester R. Thurston who died in Auburn, Sept. 13, 1993.

Funeral services will be held today, Wednesday, April 19 at 11 a.m. at the First Congregational Church in Andover with Pastor Jane Rich officiating. Interment will be at the Woodlawn Cemetery in Andover. Those who desire, please contribute to the First Congregational Church, Andover, Me., 04217 in her memory.

JOHN EVERETT FARRINGTON

John Everett Farrington, 85, died Sunday, April 16, 1995, at the Dixfield Health Care Center, Dixfield where he had resided since 1988. He was formerly of East Andover and Rumford and was a lifelong resident of the area.

He was born in Andover on May 7, 1909 and was the son of John and Effie (Harding) Farrington. He attended schools in East Andover.

He had owned and operated the Farrington Saw Mill and Shingle Mill for many years and later owned and operated Farrington's Garage in East Andover until retirement in 1973.

He was married in Mexico on Dec. 16, 1931 to Lila Murphy, who survives of Rumford. Other survivors include six daughters, Mrs. Mary Laverna Brown of Auburn, Mrs. Joseph (Geraldine) Parise of Rumford, Mrs. Daniel (June) Trenoweth of Mexico, Mrs. Albert (Carol) Nelson of East Stoneham, Mrs. Richard (Linda) Theriault of South Rumford and Mrs. Keith (Bonnie) Vashaw of Rumford; two sons, Frank Farrington of Norway and Reginald Farrington of Stafford Springs, Conn.; a foster son, Robert Dorey of Andover; one brother, Henry Farrington of Rochester, N.H.; 28 grandchildren; 36 great-grandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held today, Wednesday, April 19, at 2 p.m. at the Meador and Son Funeral Home, 3 Franklin St., Rumford with Rev. Lawrence Shaw officiating. Interment will be at the Woodlawn Cemetery in Andover.

Births

Why pump it yourself?

- Is it that you like to stand in the rain?
- Is it that you like the smell on your hands?
- Maybe it's the fumes?
